This is a great opportunity for young writers to showcase their talent and express their love for Chinese culture. Whether you are a Chinese American, an international student studying in the U.S. or China, or a non-Chinese youth passionate about Chinese culture — we warmly welcome your submission! The essay competition, as a key brand activity of the festival, has attracted widespread attention and enthusiastic participation from youth. It has become a vital bridge for promoting Chinese culture and fostering China-U.S. youth exchanges. At an award ceremony, Chinese Embassy Consul General Zhu Di noted: “The Washington Chinese Cultural Festival is an important platform for China-U.S. cultural exchange, and the essay competition provides youth with the opportunity to showcase talent and express cultural identity.”

Founded in 2021 by Chinese American youth, TheZ (载道) is a bilingual platform dedicated to encouraging Chinese American youth to write in Chinese as a means of promoting cultural heritage. Its mission is: “Using writing to carry values, make friends through words, pass on culture with ink, and connect the world through text.” The platform has more than 10 editors and youth reporters, has received over 400 submissions, and published more than 700 Chinese and English works.
